MONUMENT COMMISSIONERS.

Mr. English Takes His Seat-Routine Work of the Board.

The Monument Commission convened yesterday and welcomed Hon. William H. English as one of its members. Gen. Manson and Mr. English at once recalled that this was not the first time they had served together in the State's service. They were members of the Legislature in 1852. The old commissioners appeared pleased to welcome Mr. English. The commission decided to instruct the American Bronze Company to proceed at once with the shipment from Chicago to Indianapolis, and with the erection of the bronze etatue

"Indiana," which is to surmount the col-It was further ordered that the number of Indianians engaged in naval battles in all the wars in which Indiana participated be ascertained, and space reserved on the tablet by which the deeds of Indiana heroes are to be preserved in man's memory. President Langsdale and Mr. English were instructed to let the contract for the coherete and tile floors, for the cement paving, and for sodding.

Wallace's Condition. Joseph Wallace, who was taken from a train at the Union Station last week in a comatose condition and was supposed to have attempted suicide by taking morphine, is still at the City Hospital and very weak, although his condition is slightly improved. His case is a very complicated one and symptoms of typhoid fever have manifested themselves. The authorities at the hospital are inclined to believe that his mind is affected.

To Spend that $40,000. State Superintendent of Public Instruction Vories will go to Terre Haute to-day to attend a meeting of the board of trustees of the State Normal School. It will be the first meeting of the board since the appropriation was received, and the trustees will consider how best to spend the $40,000 given them. A new building will be erected to relieve the crowded condition of affairs. New partor goods at Wm. L. Elder's

Grand Army Appropriation Gets a Setback in the Finance Committee.

Time Becoming Short and Valuable-Worthy Action in the Twelfth Ward-Manly Speech by Mr. Gauss.

STILL NO REPORT.

Finance Committee Defer a Report on the Encampment Appropriation. The finance committee of the City Council met last night at Chairman Rassmann's office, to prepare a report on the Grand Army appropriation bill. Mesers. Gasper and Scherrer were absent, and Mesers. Rassmann, Cooper, Laut, Costello and Ryan, after a long wait, wrestled with the question for about an hour. The proceeding were secret, and when the committee arose Chairman Rassmann informed the reporters that no conclusion had been reached. He said it was decided not to call a special meeting of the Council, but to await the regular meeting, one week from last night. The committee will meet again Sunday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, to perfect its report. The decision caused grave apprehension among those in charge of the encampment, and will no doubt distress every one anxious for the good name and prosperity of the city. There remains only five months for the preparations, and is an enormous amount of work to do. "It is a very hard matter," said Mr. Fortune, "to impress upon a great many the immense pature of the encampment. There will be more people here than there were in Washington, because of the favorable rates to the world's fair, and the nearness to Indiana." A citizen of the Eighth ward, speaking of the meeting there, said: saw men there voting against the appropriation who never paid a dollar of tax in their lives. To them the encampment would be a free show, much bigger and more attractive than they pay 50 cents for several times a week at the theaters. It is not true that the majority theaters. It is not true that the majority of the people are against the appropriation. The great number who pay no taxes, of course, have no objection to the big sifair when they understand it. Then there is a great number whose taxes are so small that they care nothing about it. The kickers are small landlords and those of narrow and inhospitable spirit, blind to the true interests of the city. There are some exceptions of the crank class, of course, but these are few."

TWELFTH WARD FOR IT.

Adjourned Meeting at Columbia Hall Largely Attended and Showed a Hospitable Spirit. At the adjourned meeting of the Twelfth ward citizens at Columbia Hall, last night, Councilman Gauss's purpose to vote for the Grand Army appropriation was indorsed. W. W. Milford presided and William Mussey was secretary. There were fifty persons present and at times the talk against the measure was lively, but those favoring it were equal to the emergency.
The former tried to have Mr. Gauss say what he thought about the matter before any other expressions were made, but the councilman was not to be caught in such a trap. Michael Hanney, who is a candidate for Mr. Gauss's place, insisted that the latter speak first but the willy Connections and speak first, but the wily Councilman said he was there to listen and not to talk. George German then took the floor and denounced the scheme of taxing everybody for what he declared would benefit the few. for what he declared would benefit the few. William C. Lamb, by request, spoke of the sacrifices of the soldiers and what they had done for the country. They were entitled to all the honors any city could pay them, and the appropriation for that purpose should be granted. The money, he further said, would go back at once to many who paid it, as preparations for the encampment would call for the laber of carpenters and others. Mr. O'Brien favored the appropriation, and Mr. Rettig said if all who owned property valued at less than $3,000 were exempt he also would sustain the measure.

Mr. Hanney remarked that he was there

Mr. Hanney remarked that he was there representing his mother-in-law, and on her behalf, as well as his own, he being a taxpayer only on personalty, opposed the appropriation. He thought the councilmen, before they voted on the ordinance, should before they voted on the ordinance, should go about their respective wards with a subscription list. Joseph Ernst, a heavy tax-payer and contractor, said the saloon and hotel keepers who had been referred to by Mr. Hanney as the ones who should foot the bills, had already subscribed. They expected to subscribe again. Mr. Gauss said life was too short and the work of a councilman too hard for him to spend his time going about soliciting subscriptions. For a time those who opposed scriptions. For a time those was the appropriation, principally Mr. Hanney and Mr. German, did most of the talking.
Willis McGinnis helped them, but effective arguments were made for the measure by Captain Kiley and George Stegmeier, the latter saying it was very peculiar a large city like Indianapolis could not do as well for the encampment as "that little bit of a city, Springfield, Ill.," which has $200,000 ready to spend in entertaining the veterans if the encampment was taken there.

From this on it was with difficulty any one could be brought to speak on the question. tion. All the returns being in, Mr. Ganss took the floor, and said while he was opposed to the principle of taxation for pub-lic entertainment, he was willing to face lic entertainment, he was willing to face the proposition and vote for it for the sake of the city. He did his best to serve his constituents, and he would vote as the majority instructed him, but if it was against the appropriation, he would regret that he had been elected to Council. He would not like to bear the burden of bringing scandal upon Indianapolis, which had given to the Nation a President and a Vice President. He had been talked to by many and pulled this been talked to by many and pulled this way and that in regard to the appropriation. Only that evening the owner of a humble home and a worker in the Eagle machine works said to him that he favored the tax because he did not want to have the city disgraced. All the employes in the Eagle works were like him. Mr. Gauss had been threatened during the evening with defeat if he voted for the ordinance. He remarked that he would rather go down with honest convictions than to do that which he knew would bring scandal upon all. A vote was taken on the proposition and stood 29 for to 20 against. The meeting then adjourned.

More of the Petitioners. In addition to the names which have heretofore been published, the following are some of the signatures to the petition seking the Council to make the appropriation of $75,000 for the G. A. R. National Encampment: G. R. Morrison, J. E. Twiname, R. M. Smock. John R. Pearson, E. S. Elder, Charles Martindale, M. E. Meintire, L. T. Coburn. N. F. WHO MRS. REPBURNE IS.

Connected with Prominent People in Louisville-Her Unfortunate Marriage.

Information received from Louisville discloses the identity of Mrs. Hepburne's mother, who came to this city for the purpose of taking back home with her ber daughter and child, who have come into considerable prominence in this city during the past few months. It is stated that Mrs. Hepburne is the daughter of Mrs. Eustacia Ormsby, of New Albany, and 18 related to some of Louisville's wealthiest and most prominent people. The history obtained from her former home verifies the assertion that Mrs. Hepburne was a lady of refinement and culture. She was a graduate from a Southern female seminary of the highest order, and, after her graduation, went to Florida to spend the winter of 1889 with her mother. It was here that she met George W. Hepburne, and, after an acquaintance of but a few weeks, eloped with and married him. The mother soon became reconciled to the marriage and gave her daughter $1,000, upon which to start in life. It is said that her husband immediately resigned his position and squandered the money.

Afterwards they went to Louisville where Mr. Hepburne received employment, through the influence of Mrs. Ormsby, as contracting freight agent of the Monon. He gambled his salary away and ran deeply in debt, and finally deserted his wife and was last heard of in Florida. Mrs. Hepburne went to New Albany and lived with her mother for a short time, and then went to Louisville. When the Wilbur Opera Company came to that city she joined it and left with them as a chorus girl. The cause of her leaving the com-pany at this city and her life here has been related in the columns of the Journal. When Mrs. Ormsby came to this city, she, in company with her daughter, Mrs. Hepburne, called upon Judge Brown to endeavor to bring about some arrangement whereby Mrs. Ormsby might be permitted to take possession of her daughter's child and care for it. She told Judge Brown that she wanted to take her daughter and child back with her and provide both with a respectable home, but the court gave the child to the Board of Children's Guardians,

COLLEGE OF EMBALMING.

Graduating Exercises Begun with a Series of Lectures at Masonic Hall.

The first annual graduating exercises of the Indiana School of Embalming opened yesterday morning at Masonic Hall, with a class of over fifty leading undertakers of Ohio, Kentucky, Michigan, Illinois, Iowa and Indiana in attendance. The Rev. W. S. Biddle, of the Blackford-street M. E. Church, opened the exercises with prayer, after which Dr. C. E. Barmm delivered an address on chemistry. Dr. Barmm late of Leipsic, Germany, and chemist of much ability. He proved by practical demonstration that by certain applications of the arts known to the chemist bodies infected with the germs of contagious disease may be shipped without dauger. Prof. Carl Barnes spoke on physiology and anatomy, illustrating his views by use of the microscope. To-day at 9 o'clock the students will be instructed by Professor Fitzhugh, secretary of the college, on collins, casket trimming and general preparation of the dead. These exercises will be conducted at Girton's, after which the class will assemble at Masonic Hall to continue the regular programme. On Wednesday and Thursday diplomas will be awarded. The classincludes seven ladies, who are taking special courses in the art.
